Soviet Premier Holds Out Olive Branch To Tito

Khrushchev Wants To Settle Feud

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP)—Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev sent "cordial congratulations" to President Tito on his 66th birthday Sunday and said he'd like to patch up their feud. The feud, recently revived by the Kremlin itself, is based on Tito's refusal to surrender Yugoslav independence in the formulation of Belgrade's ideological program, plus Yugoslav foreign policy, to the Moscow-Peking axis. Khrushchev's telegram said: "As to your birthday, receive my cordial congratulations and wishes for happiness and prosperity of the fraternal Yugoslav people."

"I express the hope that the misunderstandings which exist between the union of Communists of Yugoslavia and the Communist party of Soviet Union and other fraternal parties, which are no secret, will be overcome."

Margaret Still Loves Townsend, Tabloid Reports

LONDON (AP)—Princess Margaret is still deeply in love with Group Capt. Peter Townsend, the Sunday Pictorial said Sunday.

"She would like to marry him—or nobody," wrote the tabloid's palace correspondent, Audrey Whiting.

Whether they hope to marry or not Townsend appears to be the 27-year-old princess' favorite date. And the 43-year-old former courtier has given friends the impression of still being a suitor—despite Buckingham Palace insistence that the situation has not changed since Margaret's statement in 1955 that she would not marry him.

The princess put duty above love then, rather than defy Anglican church teachings frowning on the remarriage of divorced persons. Townsend is divorced and his ex-wife is alive and remarried. They had two children who live with her—though Townsend sees them at times.

Lebanese Clash Leaves 5 Dead

SIDON, Lebanon (AP)—At least 5 people were killed and 17 wounded Sunday in a three-hour battle between Lebanese security forces and insurgents in this historic seaport.

In the first major clash since the beginning of the general strike in Lebanon, insurgents stubbornly hung on to positions inside the old town against heavy rifle and machine gun fire from security forces who now control the main streets of the modern sector.

Meanwhile, security forces claimed victory in another historic city, Baalbek in the Bekaa Valley. After a hot fight Sunday morning security forces entered the town and by noon reports said they were in command of the situation.

The insurgents there are loyal to Sabri Hamadeh, opposition leader who was former speaker of Parliament and among those determined to force the resignation of President Camille Chamoun. Baalbek has changed hands several times since the crisis began 16 days ago.

Sidon has been on a tightly enforced general strike but there was no fighting until Sunday.

Censorship Extended

PARIS (AP)—The French government Sunday extended censorship to all news distributed in France, whether coming from French territories or from abroad. There is no censorship on outgoing news.

First result was to withhold all news from Tunisia about severe fighting in the southern part of the country.

Paris Admits Air Attack On Tunisia Posts

Bourguiba Declares State Of Emergency In N. African Nation

TUNIS (AP)—French bombers and fighter planes, coming in waves from Algeria, attacked Tunisian desert outposts Sunday north of troubled Remada near the Libyan border, the Tunisian government charged.

French and Tunisian troops have been fighting around Remada—in southern Tunisia—for several days. The French have a military outpost there. A communiqué from the Tunisian Information Ministry said it had no reports of casualties as yet from the bombing and strafing attack, which started at 7 a.m. and was continuing at noon. Some public works construction and sanitary vehicles were damaged, the communiqué added.

The communiqué identified the targets as Tunisian positions in Debbir Amiy and Oued Dekouk, both about 25 miles north of Remada.

In Paris, the French government acknowledged the aerial attack, authorizing a statement that it was made to relieve French ground troops under attack.

Tunisian authorities in Tunis said they confirmed that B26 planes had come from Algerian fields. They asserted that proved collusion between French forces based in Algeria and those stationed in Tunisia.

The report of the attack came after President Habib Bourguiba had declared a state of emergency throughout this North African nation because of serious clashes between the French and Tunisian ground forces at Remada.

Five French soldiers killed. Earlier, French military headquarters in Tunis said the commander of the French troops at Remada had decided to clear an area six miles around his outpost.

The headquarters said five French soldiers were killed and 14 wounded in the ensuing fight.

The French outpost at remote Remada was one of those barricaded by the Tunisians after the French air attack on the Tunisian border village of Sakiet Sidi Youssef last February. Bourguiba has demanded withdrawal of all French troops from this territory because of that attack.

Cardinal Stritch Grows Weaker

ROME (AP)—Samuel Cardinal Stritch remained desperately ill in a Rome hospital Sunday night, unable to take even liquid nourishment. A morning medical bulletin described his condition as "very serious, with signs of progressive weakness."

Toward evening Msgr. Joseph Howard of Chicago, vice rector of the College of St. Mary of the Lake—generally known as Chicago House—said the Cardinal's condition remained "unchanged—very weak."

The 70-year-old Archbishop of Chicago and pro-pope of the Vatican's Congregation for Propagation of the Faith, was stricken by a paralyzing stroke last Monday. Saturday he suffered heart damage and was placed in an oxygen tent. Prayers for the dying were recited.

A chaplain at the hospital said he was able to receive Holy Communion only with difficulty. Another priest who has been attending the Cardinal said he had been unable to take nourishment, not even milk or fruit juice.

Russian Dancers Given Great Hollywood Ovation

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The Russians conquered Hollywood at the west coast premiere of the Moiseyev Dance Company Saturday night.

The dancers from Moscow received the greatest ovation with in memory of local theater goers. When Director Igor Moiseyev came onstage the audience rose and shouted "bravo!" Hollywood stars in the audience of 6,000 were among the most enthusiastic fans of the spirited young dancers.

Raved Anthony Quinn: "This is the greatest thing I've ever seen." "Fantastic," said Kirk Douglas, and Lauren Bacall remarked, "Unbelievable."

Said Debbie Reynolds: "I'm speechless; it's a tremendous emotional experience."

Oscar Levant cracked, "They're marvelous—too bad they're Russian."

New World Map Based On Gravity

Dr. Weikko A. Heiskanen, Finnish scientist, indicates a "bulge" at the western end of the Mediterranean Sea, which was discovered in a world-mapping project based on gravity measurements. The Air Force-sponsored research study has been in progress at Ohio State University, Columbus, for seven years. Gravity data indicates errors in earlier maps based on astronomical observations.

Administration "Timidity" Hit By Democrats

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Democratic advisory council said Sunday the White House is "paralyzed by absentee landlordism" while the free world is in critical need of U.S. leadership.

The council, in a 19-page pamphlet prepared by Dean Acheson, chairman of the council's foreign policy committee, spoke of "timid policies" of the Eisenhower-Nixon Administration and of "inadequate measures" in timidly asks.

The Democratic group recommended talks with the Russians, even "talks alone with them, provided we consult our allies first, keep them fully informed, and have a secretary of state whom they can trust."

The administration seems to think it is a "breach of security" to meet with the Russians, it said. The pamphlet, first in a series on "foreign and military policy for peace and security," said the Democratic Party can provide the needed leadership if it increases its majorities in the Senate and House this November as a springboard for winning the presidency in 1960.

The advisory council is a 24-member adjunct of the Democratic National Committee composed of 14 members of the committee and 10 others, including former president Harry S. Truman and Adlai E. Stevenson, the party's 1956 and 1952 presidential candidates.

"The present decline of American power and prestige," the Acheson document said, "is the consequence of the failure of the Republican administration to provide the free world with leadership."

"The administration has failed, not because it lacks patriotism, but because it lacks the will, the vigor, and the perceptive intelligence the world situation we have described so urgently requires."

Two Crewmen Killed In Crash Of Bomber

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP)—A B57 twin-jet medium bomber crashed in a field near Chanute Air Force Base Sunday and two crewmen were killed.

Lt. George Ogles, public information officer at Chanute, said the aircraft came into Chapultepec Sunday and was returning to its home base, Langley Air Force Base, Va., when the crash occurred.

Three Die When Car Slams Into Train

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—An automobile with a 23-year-old driver asleep at the wheel slammed into a Central of Georgia freight train early Sunday, killing Mr. and Mrs. Budd Anders and their 18-year-old son, Coy.

The Richmond County sheriff's department said the accident occurred at McBean, about 15 miles south of here, about 5 a.m.

AOMORI, Japan (AP)—A landslide buried nine children playing near a Shinto shrine Sunday and only four were dug out alive.

U.S. Renews Drive To Have Russia Lift Travel Restrictions

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States Sunday disclosed a new appeal to Moscow to abolish the barriers which restrict travel by foreigners in Russia. It offered to open up areas in this country which have been closed to Russians in retaliation.

State Department officials hope this time they may get some where. They have been trying to break down the Soviet travel restrictions for years.

In the new proposal, the United States offers 41 different package deals by which American areas now closed to Soviet citizens would be thrown open in return for the opening of comparable Soviet areas to Americans.

The restrictions in this country were instituted solely in retaliation for Soviet bars to American travel, while the restrictions in Russia apply to all foreigners.

The new U.S. approach was made in a note delivered to the Soviet Embassy in Washington Thursday and published by the State Department Sunday.

In it, the United States called once more for elimination of all travel restrictions in both countries.

Accused Bank Robber Seized

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP)—Elbert Spencer Smith, 27, of Madison, N.C., was taken into custody here Sunday and charged in last week's robbery of the Stokesdale Commercial Bank. The FBI said he was enroute to give himself up when arrested.

At an arraignment later in the day before U. S. Commissioner Lonnie Herbin Jr. bond was set at $25,000 for Smith, returnable in the June 2 term of federal court here.

Smith, white, and a Negro companion, Emanuel Upshaw, 36, of Baltimore, have been charged with taking $18,426 from the bank last Tuesday. Upshaw actually executed the holdup with a sawed-off shotgun, while Smith was described as the brains behind the robbery.

Upshaw was arrested early last Thursday huddled under a yellow tarpaulin near Stokesdale. Upon his arrest, Upshaw admitted the crime and implicated Smith.

Atomic Power Plant Dedication Today

SHIPPINGPORT, Pa. (AP)—America's first major conquest of the atom for commercial power will be formally recognized Monday with dedication of the historic Shippingport atomic power plant.

President Eisenhower plans to take part by remote control from Washington, some 215 miles from the plant site in the upper Ohio Valley in western Pennsylvania.

His participation will climax a half-hour ceremony at the 110-million-dollar plant, the world's first full-scale nuclear power station devoted solely to peacetime uses.

Duquesne Light Co. and the Atomic Energy Commission own the plant jointly.

Seven Lose Lives Trying To Save Tot

ROCKPORT, Tex. (AP)—Seven persons on beach outings drowned Sunday when they waded into the surf for a youngster caught in deep water.

Five of the victims were children who tried to go to the trapped child's rescue.

An Air Force priest and the mother of one of the five children also died. Rescue workers pulled several other persons from the water exhausted.

A crowd of several thousand persons jammed the small beach near the heart of this town of about 3,400 on the Gulf of Mexico at the time.

Wayne Bailey, an airman stationed at Foster AFB, Victoria, Tex., identified his wife, daughter and Air Force Chaplain Leonard Berry, 40, Syracuse, N.Y.

Jack Baughman, a Rockport newsman, said the overflow crowd of more than 3,000 had forced the victims to seek swimming space at a seldom-used north portion.

Dick Fox, chief of the Aransas County Emergency Corps, identified the other victims as:

David Curby, 7, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Brown, Aransas Pass, Tex.

Margarita Torres, 11, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Candelario Torres, Rockport.

Oralia Tomas, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Concepcion Tomas, Rockport.

Susanna Torres, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Baldeomar Torres, Rockport.

Battle Expected In Senate Over Yugo, Polish Aid

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. George D. Aiken (R-Vt.) said Sunday he expects the Senate will turn back any effort to cut off or restrict foreign aid or trade with Communist Yugoslavia, Poland and other Iron Curtain countries.

Aiken joined with other members of the Foreign Relations Committee last Friday to give President Eisenhower broad discretionary power in a new foreign aid bill authorizing $3,707,100,000 for the next fiscal year starting July 1.

Senate Republican leader William F. Knowland of California and Sen. Styles Bridges (R-NH), chairman of the Senate GOP Policy Committee, have served notice they want to halt all aid to Yugoslavia and other Communist countries.

They are expected to push these efforts when the Senate opens debate on the new aid program this week.

Aiken, in an interview, said this would be a mistake.

"The Soviet has been trying to muscle into Latin America and other areas, including the Middle East, with trade and aid programs," Aiken said. "It would be a serious blunder for the United States to surrender by hampering our own programs."

"Some of the strongest bulwarks against Communist expansion in Europe now are Poland, Yugoslavia and other satellites that show independence from the Kremlin, even though they are under Communist rule," he said.

Written into the Senate committee bill was an amendment by Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.) which would permit the President to furnish assistance to any Communist nation except Russia, Red China and North Korea.

He could do this by determining that such assistance would help the country involved to attain independence and reduce its economic ties with the Soviet bloc.

Finding Of 'Trigger' Adds To Mystery Of Nike Blast

MIDDLETOWN, N.J. (AP)—The mystery of last Thursday's Nike explosion has deepened. Investigators Sunday reported finding the triggering device which was being installed when the missile blew up.

They said the mechanism never was attached. It was found on the ground near the explosion site.

Army authorities had speculated that something mechanical went wrong as the device was placed in one of the Nike-Ajax missiles. The missile exploded and touched off blasts in seven others.

Ten persons were killed and three injured. Nearly half a million dollars damage was done to the missile base.

More than 50 investigators have been gathering bits of wreckage from the surrounding countryside and putting them together to determine the cause of the tragedy.

The investigators came from Ft. Bliss, Tex., missile center; from Washington; the Redstone Arsenal in Alabama; the Douglas Aircraft Corp., and the electronics center of Bell Laboratories.

Their report to the Army will include recommendations on how to prevent such accidents in the future.

The slim 32-foot Nike-Ajax missiles are designed to bring down enemy planes up to 60,000 feet. They were poised on their launching racks because a 24-hour alert went into effect moments before the explosions.

Lt. Col. Harold H. Broudy commander of the 526th Anti Aircraft Battalion, said B Battery here was placed on "hot status" at the same time a team of ordnance experts was installing the triggering device on one rocket.

Insurgents Report New Successes

Assembly, Labor Union Emergency Sessions Called

PARIS (AP)—Troubles multiplied by the hour Sunday for the embattled government of Premier Pierre Pflimlin.

Rightist insurgents in Algeria and Corsica claimed new successes. They said their movement to return Gen. Charles de Gaulle to power was spreading.

Renewed fighting between French and Tunisian forces in southern Tunisia raised grave problems.

The Communist-led General Confederation of Labor—France's biggest union—called for its members working in government arsenals to "meet immediately to plan counteraction" against the Fascist aggression.

The pressure mounted on the eve of an emergency session Monday of the National Assembly, called to deal with the spreading insurrection.

The session was called late Saturday by Premier Pflimlin after Algeria-type public safety committees, apparently directed by Algerian insurgents, took control in Corsica.

In an emergency session, Pflimlin's Cabinet Saturday branded the Corsica move seditious insurrection. In an extraordinary radio broadcast to his country after Saturday midnight, Pflimlin said the move threatened civil war in France.

Prison - Fine Threat

After another emergency session Sunday, the Cabinet declared government officials and military personnel who took part in the Corsica uprising will be fined and jailed.

As Pflimlin and his Cabinet struggled to assert its authority there were these developments that pounded at the Paris government:

1. French labor unions issued calls for their members to meet Monday and deal with what they called plots threatening the republic. The Communist-led General Confederation of Labor singled out workers in government arsenals in an announcement calling for them to plan to defend the republic "against Fascist aggression."

The Communists call De Gaulle's Fascists. Nobody was certain what action that arsenal workers might take. Union bosses refused to explain.

2. The French naval commander in the Mediterranean voiced support for the Algerian insurgents. The Paris government, in turn, ordered four of its ships just back from Atlantic Alliance Mediterranean exercises, to sail from Malta for France.

Tunisia Under Air Attack

3. Tunisian President Habib Bourguiba's government charged that French planes flew in waves from Algerian fields to bomb Tunisian outposts. He charged the air attacks came after new clashes between Tunisian and French troops in southern Tunisia. A state of emergency was declared in that North African nation.

In Paris, diplomatic sources said Bourguiba demanded that France promise by midnight Sunday to transfer all its troops to the area of the Bizerte naval base or he would appeal again to the U.N. Security Council to order all French troops out of Tunisia.

A Pflimlin Cabinet communiqué said France had protested to the Tunisian government over the fighting and had taken steps to assure security of its Tunisia-based troops.

4. Jubilant insurgent leaders in Algiers hailed the Corsica action as liberation of the island. They said their De Gaulle movement is spreading into French West and Equatorial Africa, and hinted that France itself is ripe for their public safety committee type of government takeover.

Big Air Force Plane Blows Up; Crew Unhurt

OTIS AIR FORCE BASE, Mass. (AP)—An RC121 Super Constellation Air Force plane blew up Sunday on the takeoff ramp. It was destroyed within five minutes in a series of explosions.

The crew of 14 escaped uninjured, except for minor rope burns suffered sliding from the plane, valued at 2½ million dollars.

The blaze was prevented from reaching several nearby aircraft.

Washington-Bound 'Walk For Peace' Group Spends Night In Elkton

ELKTON, Md. (AP)—A group of persons walking for peace crossed from Delaware into Maryland Sunday and bedded down for the night in the Elkton firehouse.

Ages range from 7 to 71 in the group making a week-long trek to Washington, D. C., to dramatize their opposition to testing, production and stockpiling of nuclear weapons.

Twenty-six of those arriving in Elkton had marched all the way from Wilmington, Del., where the walk started Saturday.

The effort is being coordinated by Curtis Moody, 75, of Nyack, N. Y., who has a car and trailer with cots and sleeping bags. He picks up those who become tired along the way. Besides the 26, the group includes others who have walked some and ridden some.

One of these is 7-year-old Martha Way, youngest person in the group. The youngest of the walkers is 12-year-old Raymond Dellinger. His father, David Dellinger of Glen Garden, N. J., is a leader of one of the groups.

The oldest persons, both 71, are Donald Stewart of Arden, Del., and Miss Florence Luscomb, who told newsmen she is from Boston.

Moody said the group got a late start from Newark, Del., where they spent Saturday night. They didn't leave Newark until 2 p.m. so that those who wished to attend church could do so.

The "walk for peace" is being sponsored by the American (Quakers) and other groups.

Moody said the group hopes to get an early start Monday morning for Aberdeen, Md., to be followed by stops in Joppa, Baltimore, Waterloo and College Park all in Maryland.

They expect to be met at College Park Friday, Moody said, by another large group coming in by auto from other eastern states. They plan to walk into Washington on Saturday and meet another group which left today from Winchester, Va.

Moody said residents along the way have been offering food and water and showing other kindnesses. States represented in the group are New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Minnesota, Delaware and Massachusetts.

Suspect Held In Fatal Shooting Of Baltimorean

ESSEX, Md. (AP)—A Baltimore County man was being held by police Sunday night in connection with the fatal shooting of Henry H. Grieb, 36-year-old Baltimorean.

Grieb was shot late Saturday night in the kitchen of Frank McKin, who operates an ornamental iron works in the rear of his Essex home.

The suspect, not yet charged by police, was arrested in front of his Essex home less than two hours after the shooting. Grieb died in City Hospitals.

Melvin L. Taylor, 31, of Sparrows Point, said the shooting occurred after an argument between the victim and the arrested suspect over who did the most work in the shop.

Taylor said the suspect challenged Grieb to a fight but then backed down after Grieb accepted the challenge. The man left, Taylor related, saying he was going to get a gun and kill Grieb, and returned about 10 p.m. with an Italian Biretta automatic.

Taylor said the man put the gun against Grieb's right side and fired once. After the victim fell, the two men engaged in a brief conversation as Taylor ran to a wall telephone in another room.

Taylor said that as he tried to get someone on the workshop extension to hang up, the man with the gun noticed what was happening and fired two shots at Taylor. After Taylor ran into a bedroom and braced the door shut, the other man pulled the phone off the wall and left.

McKin's daughter and about 15 teen-agers, who were holding a party on the patio at the time, did not know of the shooting.

Taylor, McKin's brother-in-law helped out at the shop Saturday. The other two men were regularly employed there.

Atlantic Rendezvous World War II Unknown Will Be Selected Today

NORFOLK, Va. — Chopin's Funeral March will sound in solemn dirge over the Atlantic Ocean Monday at a rendezvous of three unknown American fighting men who died in their country's last two wars.

By high line from other warships, their bodies will swing across the waves to the cruiser Canberra. There, they will be placed in bronze caskets and placed on deck beneath the ship's deadly Terrier missiles.

Thus will the stage be set for two ceremonies, the selection of the nameless hero of World War II and the burial at sea of the unselected unknown. Between these two will lie the unknown serviceman of the Korean War.

Negro Admits Setting Two Church Fires

CHICAGO (AP)—Police said a 35-year-old Negro, Isaac Wilson, admitted setting disastrous fires in two church buildings early Sunday, because he resented not being permitted to bring his dog to church.

Officer Ernest Bursoni said Wilson was seized on the steps of a third west side church with oily rags and newspapers. Bursoni quoted Wilson as saying he intended to set fire to the third church.

Fire Commissioner Robert Quinn said the Christ Temple Church of the Pentecostal Assembly of the World was a total loss. He estimated damage at $100,000. The second blaze caused damage estimated at $30,000 to a four-story gothic building formerly used as a Baptist church and now occupied by a manufacturing firm.

Dollar-A-Shot Polio Program Called Off

ROCKVILLE, Md. (AP) — A proposed dollar-a-shot public polio immunization program has been cancelled because of opposition of the Montgomery County Medical Society.

The society will offer instead free shots at eight county health centers between May 28 and July 3.

Dr. W. T. Joyce, president of the society, said the opposition was based upon a feeling that health programs should be handled only by medical organizations.

The mass immunization had been proposed by the Rockville Junior Women's Club.

$1,000,000 Idea Man

MR. F. SCHIAVONE
A big, $1,000,000 idea to help speed the return of prosperity has been announced by the Aetna Finance manager here.

Throughout America, he pointed out, people are being urged to "Buy Now" and help business. The Aetna Company has set aside $250,000 cash for the people of this area. Over $1,000,000 of increased business activity would result from getting this money into immediate circulation.

Residents here are invited to apply for amounts of $50 to $1500, then spend it for needed things or to pay bills. The money may be obtained on name only, the same day.

"We don't recommend needless borrowing," said the Aetna manager, "but very often it is a sensible way to get new things or a new, fresh start." Those interested are asked to phone or see Aetna Finance, 48 N. Centre St., PA 4-6800. (Loans over $300 made under Md. Industrial Finance Act.)

Ford Officials Discuss Union Pact Expiration

DETROIT (AP)—Some 250 Ford Motor Co. executives from throughout the United States met Sunday to discuss various situations that could prevail when the United Auto Workers contract expires next Sunday.

John S. Bugas, vice president in charge of industrial relations and head of the company bargaining team, reviewed current negotiation efforts and told the 3½ hour meeting: "Because of the many uncertainties involved, the company is preparing to handle any situation that may arise."

He said possibilities range "all the way from a new contract to operating without a contract." He noted that at no time since wartime 1941 have Ford and UAW operated without a contract.

The Chrysler contract, like Ford's, expires June 1. The GM deadline is Thursday night. Ford and GM talks resume Monday while Chrysler sessions were recessed until Tuesday.

Legally, auto companies could close their plants to force a contract showdown. They have given no indication of their plans. But UAW President Walter Reuther told a news conference Saturday that any management lockout "would mean a deterioration in long-range collective bargaining."

Bugas said it was stressed to Ford executives that the union has announced publicly it would instruct its members to work without a contract.

"A statement of company policy to cover this situation was outlined and discussed in detail," Bugas added.

Strauss Reports: U.S. Testing Both 'Dirty' And 'Clean' Atom Bombs

WASHINGTON (AP)—Chairman L. Strauss of the Atomic Energy Commission said Sunday the United States is testing both "dirty" and "clean" bombs in the current nuclear trials in the Pacific.

In a TV interview (ABC College News Conference), Strauss himself put quotes around the words "clean" and "dirty" after saying he preferred to talk in terms of reduced radioactive fallout.

The AEC head said he could give no further details except to say that the United States is testing bombs in a considerable variety of ranges and compositions. An announced purpose of the tests is to discover ways to reduce fallout.

As he has in the past, Strauss said the danger of radioactive fallout from the tests is relatively small. He said scientists have been able through such experiments to produce weapons 95 to 96 per cent clean of all radioactive byproducts. And the scientists believe that given enough time they can produce weapons with no fallout, Strauss added.

The AEC chairman described as "A wonderful, forward looking proposal" President Eisenhower's offer to Russia Saturday to start scientific talks at Geneva in three weeks on ways of policing a nuclear weapons test ban.

Strauss said he is not opposed to halting nuclear tests, but believes the whole question should be tied in with halting the production of armaments.

Indonesian Rebels Form New Cabinet

MANILA (AP)—Indonesia rebels have announced formation of a new caretaker cabinet headed by Col. Joop Warouw as acting premier. The new cabinet reporting this development came from the North Celebes rebel capital of Manado.

The Manado cabinet apparently replaces the original rebel cabinet formed Feb. 16 at Bukittinggi in Central Sumatra. That one has been in large part dispersed by government forces.

The new premier, Col. Warouw, formerly was Indonesian military attaché in Peiping and was minister for reconstruction, industry and public works in the Sumatra cabinet.

Few persons ever see the "tomorrow" ways. They're mostly in solemn papers, carefully put away. For example—papers that will help pay for college some day. Papers that will mean protection for her and Mother, if Daddy shouldn't always be there.

Norfolk Coed Lands Middies' Color Girl Role

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — The Naval Academy's color girl for June Week is Miss Margaret Anne Spencer, college junior from Norfolk, Va. The pretty, 20-year-old girl had to get the okay of teachers at Richmond's Westhampton College Saturday to clear the way for her celebrated role. Usually she'd be taking exams during the festivities May 31-June 4. But the teachers will let her take examinations later. Miss Spencer was chosen color girl by Midshipman Jesse J. Hernandez of San Leandro, Calif. He is commander of the academy company judged best of the 24 in the midshipman brigade. The young couple met at a dance in Norfolk two years ago while he was taking a class in amphibious warfare. Westhampton's dean of the college, Miss Marguerite Roberts, said the school had never granted special permission for a coed to miss exams. And a big reason in Miss Spencer's favor is the fact she's an excellent student, said Miss Roberts.

Humelsine Renamed Head Of State K. Of C

OCEAN CITY, Md. (AP) — Charles B. Humelsine of Baltimore was reelected to his fourth term as president of the Maryland Knights of Columbus Sunday. It is only the second time in the state organization's history that one person has served four terms. He was unopposed. Humelsine, while a resident of Baltimore, is a member of the Hagerstown K of C council. Leo G. Koefle of Silver Spring was elected secretary in the only contested race. He defeated the incumbent, Morris J. Klein of the Notre Dame council of Baltimore. Four out of every 10 families in the United States use a household budget.

Today's Sermonette

Today's Sermonette is a digest of a sermon preached at Trinity Methodist Church by the pastor, Rev. C. Thomas Subock. The sermon digests are made available through the Cumberland Ministerial Association.

Therefore also I have dedicated him to the Lord. As long as he lives he is set apart to the Lord. I Samuel 1:28

By REV. C. THOMAS SUBOCK

There is probably no more beautiful story in the Old Testament than that of Hannah, the mother of Samuel. She had not been blessed with children and was very sorrowful. She was the wife of Elkanah who had two wives. Peninnah, the second wife, ridiculed Hannah because she was barren. Hannah wept. She begged the Lord for a man child, offering to place him in the Temple, to be dedicated to God. Elkanah comforted his wife, for he knew her to be a deeply consecrated person. Nothing in the world is more helpful than good parents. And in this respect Samuel was doubly blessed. Hannah persevered in prayer to the point that the Priest of the Temple believed her to be drunk. Sadly, today, people pray as a matter of habit, expecting nothing and getting nothing. True prayer is possible only when the life is right and the heart is pure. We need many more like the mother of Samuel, who pray for and with their children, who rear them for God's service rather than fame and fortune. Yes, Hannah knew the secret of prevailing prayer. The mother of Samuel dedicated her son to the Lord, and there is a real beauty in this dedication. The Baptismal or Christening Service is such a dedication. This is not a time for laughter over cuteness. It is a very serious moment in the lives of the parents. They are dedicating themselves to rear the child in a Christian home, to lead the child later to an open confession of Christ, and into the fellowship of the Church. Parents cannot take such a vow unless they are truthful. Who would dare to be untruthful with God? Hannah kept her vow. How many of us do? God help us to make our lives examples of Christ-like love. Samuel's mother kept him under Godly instruction. Many children see that their parents seem not to need the Church and they begin to think the same way. A mother and father were discussing their children and asking the question, "Why aren't they like us?" These parents had been raised in a Christian home, but had gotten away from the Church. They sent their children to Sunday school, but soon they were married and lost their way from the fellowship of Christians. There were divorces and disgrace. The parents could not understand, and they failed to see that their children did not have the advantages of a Christian home.

We must not sell our children short. We must begin early and keep our children under the influence of Christian teachings and the Church. Carl Menninger, an educator in the field of marriage and the family, was giving a series of lectures to a group of young mothers. After the lecture, one mother asked him when she should start teaching her child. Dr. Menninger asked, "How old is the child?" "Three years old," replied the mother. "Well," he said, "hurry home as fast as you can, you are already three years late."

Again we look on Samuel's great mother — womanly, graceful, and loving, she typifies the ultimate and the best in real parenthood. If we are truthful with ourselves, we will understand that children like Samuel do not become a reality, until parents like Elkanah, and Hannah, likewise, become a reality.

Report Due Tuesday On U Of Md. Shortage

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) — A report is due from the state's attorneys office Tuesday on the case of the missing $18,000 at the University of Maryland. Blair Smith, Prince Georges County prosecutor, said he plans to meet with university officials then to discuss possible criminal charges against a dismissed financial aide. Meanwhile, a University of Maryland spokesman has said that the shortage was suspected as long ago as October 1956. But he said the financial entanglements were so great the university did not make the case public until last week.

Gordon Cairns, dean of agriculture, said the shortage apparently was in agriculture and allied funds. He said the dismissed employee was in his department.

The yellow jessamine is South Carolina's state flower.

Marylanders Boost Savings

GREENSBORO, N. C. (AP) — In the midst of an economic recession, Marylanders are socking away more money than ever in savings and loan associations. A report of the Federal Home Loan Bank here indicates that the 74 member institutions in Maryland received more than double the savings in April over the figure for a year ago. New savings totaled $26,887,000 and withdrawals amounted to $17,075,000. Thus the net added was $9,812,000, or more than twice the April 1957 intake of $4,627,000. The Maryland associations completed mortgage loans totaling $17,180,000 in April, or 15 per cent short of the year-ago level of $20,264,000. The home loan bank here compiles statistics on savings and loan associations in seven southern and coastal states plus the District of Columbia.

Mineral Grand Jury Recalled This Morning

Will Reconsider Dragging Case

KEYSER — The regular grand jury that convened at the opening of the present term of Mineral County Circuit Court, will reconvene today, at 10 a. m. (EDT) for a second appearance in Court before Judge Ernest A. See. The jurors indicted six area young men, between the ages of 19 and 22 years of age.

The case drew much attention because the young men had been charged with dragging a Piedmont man along the street in Piedmont, as it was said, two of the indicted members of the party within the car, held the Piedmont man by his arms as he was dragged some distance. The grand jury at that time indicted the boys without knowing all facts of the case.

Judge See, after the grand jury had completed its work with only a part of the information about the case, later recalled the grand jurors for another session and additional witnesses, about 15, were summoned. The court expects that the grand jury will now have additional information, and with the presentation of this additional evidence, by Attorney Vernon E. Rankin, special prosecutor appointed by Judge See to handle the events as they come up at this term, there is much attention attracted to the special session.

Mr. Rankin has been investigating the case for close to two weeks and has more information for the court when the grand jury convenes this morning.

The young men were indicted on a misdemeanor count on a charge of assault and battery. With the new evidence the grand jury is expected to re-indict the young men on more serious counts.

Six Candidates Issue Statements Over Weekend

Six candidates, including Mayor Roy W. Eves and five Council aspirants, issued campaign statements over the weekend.

The Council candidates are among the 16 slated to compete in the City primary election June 3, when the number will be cut down to the eight certified for the municipal election on June 17. No mayoral primary will be held as only Mayor Eves and J. Edwin Keech Jr. are running.

Mayor Roy Eves
Mayor Eves, who is seeking his third term in the June 17 general election, issued the following statement concerning his candidacy:

"I have served six years in the city's highest office and foresee in the next four years the fruition of several long-range plans conceived in previous administrations. There will also arise many new problems in municipal progress to be solved."

He said he bases his qualification for meeting this situation not only upon his experience in office but upon training received in his years with industries and the maintenance of facilities with problems of a similar nature to those of the city. This, together with the diversified experience and administrative ability of the four other members of council, should result in efficient operation of the affairs of the city, he added.

"The fact that for almost a half century our city government has been non-partisan, has had a most beneficial effect in securing unbiased cooperation in the solution of many of these problems. It is my hope that this attitude in conduct of the business of the city as well as in elections may continue," the mayor said.

Mrs. Lucile Roeder
Mrs. Lucile Roeder, 808 Trost Avenue, first woman to hold public office in Cumberland, served as street commissioner from 1950 to 1954 (two terms) but gave up the office in an unsuccessful attempt for mayor.

Mrs. Roeder said: "I have retained my interest in city affairs and my decision to seek office after a lapse of four years is based upon the belief I can be of service to the people of Cumberland."

"I have no axes to grind and no political affiliations with any candidate or group. I feel that my experience as a commissioner and my record as a member of City Council from 1950 to 1954 qualify me for consideration by the voters."

During the past four years, Mrs. Roeder said she has been actively associated with youth programs at the church and community level, and in the affairs of civic groups. She is the wife of C. Eric Roeder and they have two children.

Civil Service Group Rejects Appointment
The Allegany County Civil Service Commission has rejected a plan of the county commissioners to give James David Cochran, 478 Goethe Street, a temporary appointment as night watchman at Sylvan Retreat.

The county commissioners had

Harry E. Shobe

Harry E. Shobe, 702 Holland Street, was the last of the 16 to enter the primary race June 3.

Shobe, for 21 years local consignee-distributor for Texaco gas and oil products, also operates a garage and service station at 1309 Virginia Avenue. He is making his first bid for office in Cumberland but was unsuccessful last Tuesday in seeking election to the Republican State Central Committee of Allegany County.

Shobe said he is seeking office as an independent and pledged, if elected, to expend his efforts toward furthering the best interests of Cumberland. He said he has various suggestions for improvement, including the completion of projects begun in the Department of Water and Electric Light by the late Commissioner William J. Edwards.

Shobe pledged to seek action on a third dam to assure ample water supply to all sections of the city and to see that all sections have adequate water pressure. Better street lighting is needed in some sections, he said, particularly in the East Side. The South Cumberland Industrial Boulevard and expansion of recreation facilities, Constitution Park, more playground areas and ball fields properly located and landscaped are important to the improvement program, he added.

Shobe said he is also interested in obtaining a new Wiley Ford Bridge. He continued he would be in favor of opening and extension of some city streets for residential development and to facilitate movement of traffic.

He said he would propose appointment of a committee to study the form of city government, financial structure of the city particularly to grant wage adjustments and increases to all city employees since he believes Street Department employees, police and firemen deserve certain wage increases.

He said he also believes more efficient handling of business of the city is possible if there is a centralization of information to enable each commissioner to avail himself of the knowledge of all departments, as it is the duty of each to assist in conducting affairs of the city and not confine himself to the workings of one department.

Shobe has resided here 25 years and is married to the former Rosalie Glick, a member of the faculty of Fort Hill High School. They have a son, Harry Shobe Jr., 12.

Shobe is a member of Centre Street Methodist Church, Wesleyan Bible Class and Methodist Men's Club.

He voted Tuesday to name Mr. Cochran as the temporary successor to Arnold Roy Frankland, who died suddenly May 14.

Instead, the Civil Service Commission advocates that the appointment be made from a list of six given the county commissioners March 3 for the appointment of a night janitor at the Court House, Mason I. Diehl, the high man on that list, was appointed, effective March 16.

Still on that list are James F. Green, George A. Nolan, William Thompson, Carl C. Yeager and James W. Sills Jr.

Glenn K. Davis

Glenn K. Davis, 515 Dreyer Avenue, unsuccessful in seeking nomination as county commissioner in last Tuesday's state-county election, said: "My reason for running in the city election is I believe after my recent experience in county politics, that there is a great need for honesty and integrity in politics."

"I am in favor of improving the subway in South Cumberland. I would be receptive to any progressive move that does not overburden the taxpayer and I will not make any promises I cannot fulfill, but will always be open to constructive suggestions."

Davis is manager of the Tri-State Towel and Coat Service, a native of Lanesville, W. Va., attended Pennsylvania Avenue School and was graduated from Davis (W. Va.) High School. He came here in 1927.

He is married to the former Genevieve E. See and they have a son, Glenn Lee Davis, a senior at Allegany High School, and two daughters, Gail and Genet.

He is a member of Holy Cross Episcopal Church and is a lay leader and member of the church advisory board. He is also adult advisor for the Allegany Assembly of Episcopal Youth Groups.

Davis has been employed by the Tri-State Towel and Coat Service for the past 20 years, starting as a driver-salesman.

He is a member of Cumberland Local 453, Teamsters and Chauffeurs Union; Cumberland Lions Club of which he is past president, zone chairman, a Key member, and is currently chairman of the sight conservation committee.

He also has been active in other charity and civic drives.

George H. Tederick

George H. Tederick, local real estate and insurance man served one term on City Council as water commissioner during the 1950-52 administration of Mayor Thomas S. Post. He received the highest vote in the general election in 1950.

In a statement outlining his aims Tederick said: "I learned that unity among the council members will serve best for the efficient operation of the various city departments."

"With unity there will be wise spending of the taxpayers money, a concerted effort for industrial development, a sound recreation program and encouragement for efficient movement of traffic through the city of Cumberland. It will also improve the city government for the benefits of its citizens."

Mr. Tederick has operated a real estate and insurance business at 112½ South Liberty Street since 1948. He is a son of the late George U. Tederick, a B&O Railroad conductor who retired after 48 years of service. He resides at 186 Thomas Street with his mother.

After attending Virginia Avenue Elementary School, he was graduated from the old Pennsylvania Avenue High and then attended Catherman's Business School and studied business administration at Richmond College.

He was a member of the first Board of Zoning Appeals after the city zoning ordinance was adopted. He is also a member of the Cumberland Exchange Club, First Evangelical United Brethren Church, treasurer of Chapel Hill Lodge, Odd Fellows, and vice president of the Duke Memorial Bible Class.

Fatal Car Collision

SALISBURY (AP) — Ernest Paul Gordy lost his life Saturday when his car collided with another vehicle he was attempting to pass on U. S. 13.

State Police said the accident occurred two miles north of the Maryland-Delaware line. Gordy's car collided with one driven by James D. Pollitt, 23, of Mantua, N. J. Both cars were traveling south.

Every person has some three thousand taste buds compared with fifty thousand taste buds of the antelope.

Charles Hornbrook

Charles Hornbrook, 53, of Winifred Road, a candidate for city council issued a statement outlining his reasons for seeking election.

"Unlike some of my esteemed fellow citizens who aspire to be city councilmen I am not independent. On the contrary, I am completely dependent on you — the voters of Cumberland," not only for my election but in the event I should be chosen to serve you, for your advice, guidance and cooperation if we are to make Cumberland the clean, peaceful and prosperous community in which we would all like to work, live and raise our families."

"It is true we have problems, many of them, and they come in all sizes—large, small and medium. Many of these problems are extremely serious but they all have one thing in common. They are all possible of solution and we can solve them by working together."

"Cumberland could and should be a beautiful and prosperous city, and without pointing the finger of guilt at anyone it is my belief that insufficient and sometimes faulty planning is the direct cause of many of our headaches."

"The chief example of this is our parking and traffic problem. Steps are being taken toward the cure for this, but here again it takes cooperation from everyone to turn the trick."

"A truly remarkable job is being done by the fine crew in the Recreation Department, but I am of the opinion that we need the combined thinking of a public-spirited and representative board, similar to the board which resigned some months ago, to give our public recreation program scope and direction."

Hornbrook was a candidate for council in the primary election in 1952. A native of Garrett County, he has resided here since he was 12 years old.

He is married to the former Madeleine Voght, a native of Tours, France. They have a daughter, Mrs. Dale Jones, whose husband is a student at Potomac State College, and a son, Charles Hornbrook Jr., who is stationed at Bainbridge Naval Training Station with the Navy.

Mr. Hornbrook is a member of Second Baptist Church and has been employed as a photographer for the Times-News papers 17 years, except for 37 months when he was a combat photographer with the Navy Seabees during World War II.

Water Commission Opposes Merger

The Maryland Water Pollution Control Commission has gone on record as opposing merger with the Maryland State Health Department.

The motion to oppose the merger was made by George F. Hazelwood, member of the commission and chairman of the board of the Hazelwood Construction Company here, and Ernest A. Vaughn, director of the Game and Inland Fish Commission.

There have been a number of attempts to abolish the commission and to incorporate its duties in the Health Department program.

Air Traffic Safety Needed

An air crash is always front page news. It is unusual and gets the big headlines. For this reason, the public might get the impression that military crashes, in particular, are increasing in number.

Not so, according to figures of the U. S. Air Force. It is true that hardly a week passes that military planes do not collide, crash or spew wreckage over the landscape. But despite phenomenal increases in aircraft speeds, the number of military accidents actually is declining.

While the volume of military flying is holding fairly steady, the number of accidents shows a steady, year-by-year decrease.

The ratio of accidents to hours flown is declining and last year reached an all-time low in both Air Force and the combined Navy-Marine air arm. The number of actual fatalities has decreased in recent years.

At the same time, the ratio of fatal accidents to total accidents has gone up. There are fewer major accidents but more of them result in someone being killed—because of higher speeds.

Despite the improvement, statistics show it is safer to fly in a commercial airliner than in a service plane. The Air Force has more than 13 fatal accidents per 100,000 hours of flying. Civilian scheduled lines have less than two-tenths of a fatal accident for the same number of hours.

But statistics will not console the families of those who are killed in such collisions as that which occurred over Brunswick only last week. With more and more planes in the air, it is obvious that better safety controls are needed.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

What Do You Know?

One of the experiences which every commentator on life encounters is the assertion that while he may know what he is talking about occasionally, he knows nothing about this or that particular subject, especially when what he says may affect someone's cash income.

For instance, I recently wrote about some theories that social workers hold and upon me descended an avalanche of vituperation, all to the point of my knowing nothing about gangs, gangsters, social workers and such. Maybe, I was born with a platinum spoon in my mouth.

According to the National Association of Social Workers, Connecticut Chapter I'm a hell of a guy because I do not agree that it is the function of society to mollycoddle bad boys and girls. Says M. Dovernman, Chairman of Public Relations and Interpretation Committee:

"... It is also proper for the public to expect from commentators like Mr. Sokolsky that they move on beyond their anger to offer outlines for constructive action to deal with the problems they write about."

Sure, I have a constructive suggestion. It is for the police to grab a show-off gangster, especially a teen-ager, and give him a good, old-fashioned whacking the way his father ought to do if the fellow ever had a father.

I have known gangs all my life. I lived, as a boy, in a part of New York where gangs abounded. On Pitt Street was the Kid Twist Gang; on Mulberry Street, the Paul Kelly Gang. South of them was what was left of the Five Points Gang. In Chinatown, girls were being lured into vice. I cite these not to show that my memory is good but to describe the environs. In the yard of the public school to which I went on Rivington Street, there were fellows who taught others to be pickpockets. Out of such folks came Gurrah and Lepke who organized Murder, Inc., in Brownsville, which is part of Brooklyn.

Sure, I know gangs and I know the difference in character between the gangs of this generation and that. In those days, a gang might steal but the boys did not rape. The boys never killed, although they picked pockets. And they feared the law. It was only during the Prohibition period that the law came to mean nothing. And that continues to this day. The good boys and the bad boys in my younger years respected the cops; today, a little punk is ready to fight it out with a cop.

In the years of my youth, a woman could walk through the streets of New York unmolested. A barber shop quartette might stand on a street corner and do a little "mashing" but that was as far as it went. Today, nobody dares go into a public park at night and mugging has taken place on main thoroughfares.

As for social workers, I have known them all my life, even before they became professionalized and had an association. After all, I am an alumnus of a social settlement, The Educational Alliance, which is still functioning. And a grand place it is, too.

But nobody coddled us. We were taught responsibility. Nobody made it easy for us. Nobody, in those days, would have failed to cooperate with the police.

Dovernman writes officially: "Mr. Sokolsky's article has done a disservice to the public for I believe that a consequence of it may be a hesitation by some persons to give financial support to their community chests..."

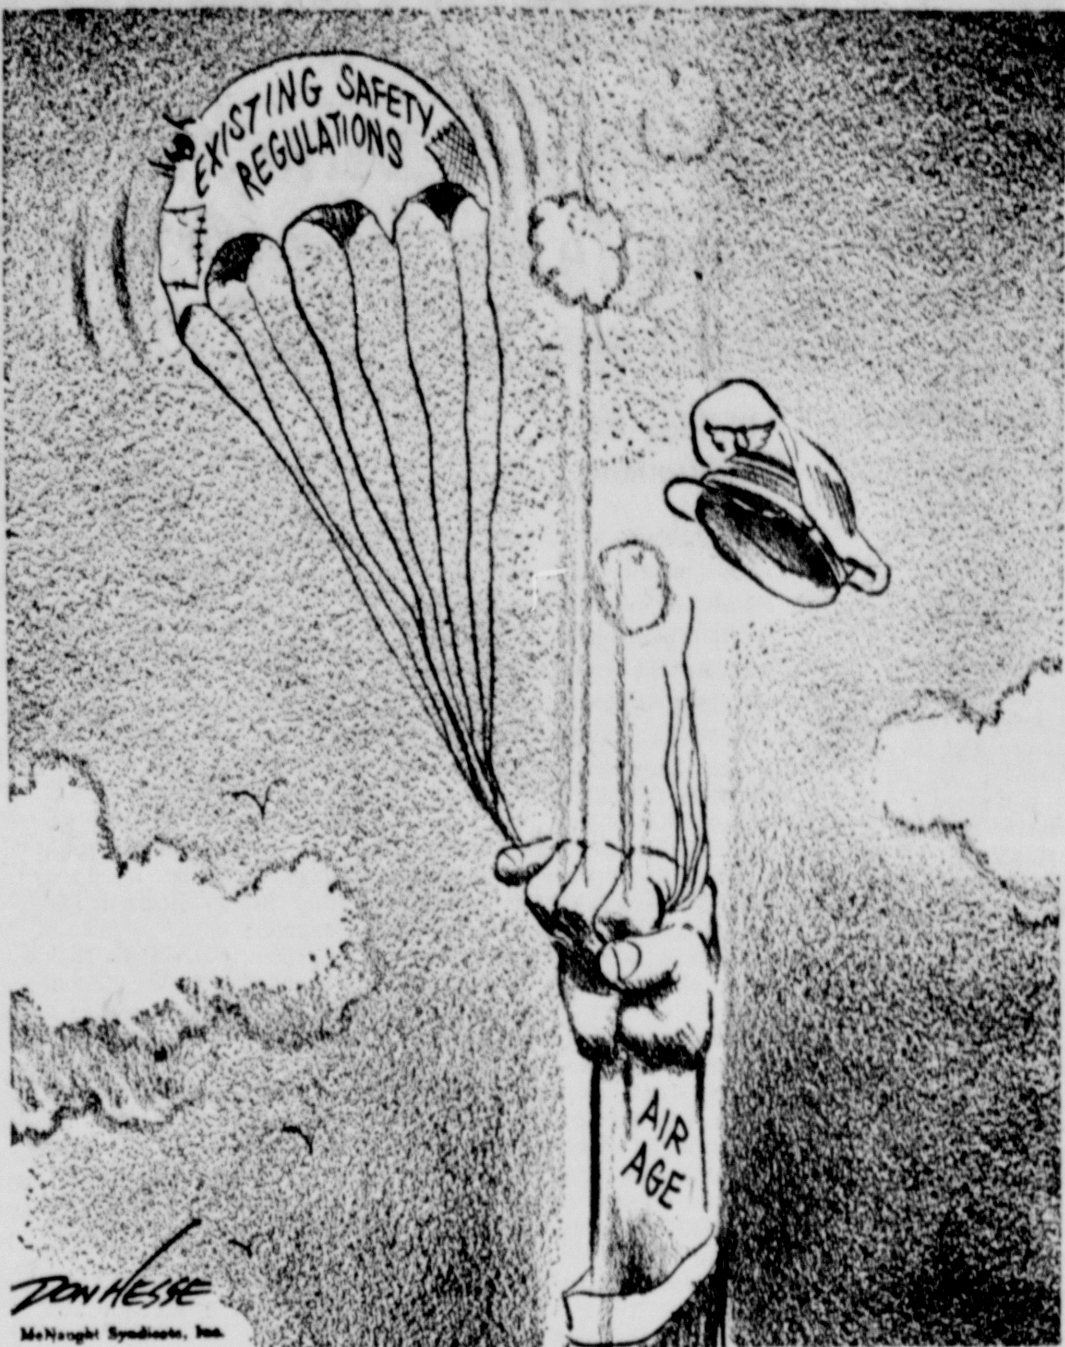

I cannot imagine anyone in "The Educational Alliance" or "The University Settlement," or "The Boys Club" writing such words. They would have been too proud. I do not idealize the noble men and women who did so much for me and boys and girls like me. Most of them were volunteers and they gave money as well as time to help us rise out of the slums in which we lived.

And they were all Americans and believed in human liberty and dignity, and they taught us to love this country and to fight for it. Not one of them would have written a paragraph like the following:

"I should like to suggest further that you consider the inauguration of a judicious screening of Mr. Sokolsky's future work to assure factual veracity. Uncurbed, Mr. Sokolsky does harm to the public image of journalism in its various forms as an ethical, constructive profession..."

Oh dear! Oh dear!

Parachute To Oblivion

De Gaulle's Eventual Return To Power Foreseen

By Joseph Alsop

PARIS
Short of a miracle in the French Chamber of Deputies, it is hard to see how Gen. de Gaulle's eventual return to power is going to be avoided.

The French parliament is not usually a miraculous body. Hence the circumstances in which Gen. de Gaulle will take power probably constitute the key problem of the French future. If he is again elevated to the leadership of France by unconstitutional or anti-constitutional means, the consequences are likely to be fairly lurid. But one can at least hope for much better results if de Gaulle attains power by better means.

The foregoing conclusions flow quite directly from the logic of the present situation here in France. The surface is deceptive. Paris is calm. Paris is in full springtime glory. Paris even has a government, headed by Pierre Pflimlin, which commands a large and seemingly solid majority in the Chamber.

But this smiling, tranquil surface is relatively meaningless when it is weighed against two central facts. The government of Pierre Pflimlin no longer has any real authority in Algeria. And there is no visible, practical way to re-establish the supremacy of Paris over Algiers, except by de Gaulle alone.

In the feverish days since the French Army in Algeria in effect proclaimed a second French government there, the key event here in Paris has been the resignation of the moderate and high-minded French Chief of Staff, Gen. Paul Ely. Ostensibly, Gen. Ely resigned because the new Minister of Defense, Pierre de Chevigne abruptly arrested a couple of members of the General Staff without giving Gen. Ely any warning.

In fact, however, this was just the straw that broke the camel's back, as was indicated when Gen. Ely was beseeched most humbly to resume his post. He simply answered that he did not agree with the government on much larger issues than the arrest of his subordinates. Three other senior officers, beginning with Adm. Henry Nomy were then offered the post and gave the same answer as Gen. Ely. Gen. Henri Lorillot who finally agreed to take over, is an intimate collaborator of Gen. Ely's, who accepted the office with the full approbation of his former chief, and only because the French armed forces could not be left headless.

All this implies (as it was intended to imply) the virtually absolute solidarity of the French Army here in Europe behind the French Army in Algeria. What the Army wants is a serious attempt to solve the cruel Algerian problem once and for all, without undue further delay. The apparently enthusiastic response of the Muslim population to the Committee of Public Safety in Algeria has convinced the Army that such a solution is now feasible.

But Gen. Raoul Salan has also revealed the Army's conviction that only one man can impose this Algerian solution. In his recent address in Algiers, Salan spoke volumes, both by his ecstatic praise of Gen. de Gaulle and by his significant silence concerning the Pflimlin government — the same government which was obsequiously voting full powers to Gen. Salan almost as the General delivered his address.

In these circumstances, how else can the authority of Paris be restored in Algiers, except by an eventual resort to Gen. de Gaulle? No easily imaginable combination of French parliamentarians can accomplish this without, as a minimum the support of the Army in Europe against the Army in Algeria.

That support will hardly be forthcoming, because the French Army in Europe shares the conviction of the French Army in Algeria that no imaginable combination of civilian politicians can impose an Algerian solution. This conviction, furthermore, is almost certainly correct; for Gen. de Gaulle will be able to sponsor a solution that would cause cries of "treason" if it emanated from the Chamber of Deputies.

There is, therefore, only one peaceable way out that seems to have much chance of success. This is for the civilian politicians to offer power to Gen. de Gaulle for a limited term, and for two awfully specified purposes — to seek a solution in Algeria and to carry through a constitutional reform. No one can tell whether the General would accept such an offer, but it is certain that if he refused, he would then lose much of the support he now enjoys, and this would transform the situation once again.

The Leftwing parties want nothing of the sort, the Communists are threatening a general strike. All the parliamentarians are looking for still another combination, which will somehow overcome the harsh reality of two quite separate governments in Paris and Algiers. Maybe a miracle will happen, along this unlikely line. But it is much more likely that the situation will drag on to the point of open rupture between Algeria and Paris. Then there can be very bad trouble indeed in this unhappy country.

Three questions up for grabs are the state income tax, the right-to-work petition and sales tax. That's why the button-hole gymnasts are doing the giant-swing on partisan lapels.

It's nineteen years since Townsend's flying platters served pie-in-the-sky.

But they're at it again tooth, filling and good red herring.

The New Mouth-To-Mouth Resuscitation Method

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Mouth-to-mouth artificial respiration may replace the Holger-Nielsen back pressure-arm lift method adopted in 1951. Recent studies by members of the department of anesthesiology at the Baltimore City hospital demonstrated that the older method does not bring sufficient air into the lungs.

When breathing ceases, due to drowning, for example, the airway from the mouth to the vocal cords usually kinks because the head droops. Holding up the head in a "sniffing position" and pulling in the lower jaw straightens the windpipe. But this is not all. The bronchi and air sacs in the lungs collapse in an unconscious person and considerable pressure is needed to distend them with air. With the older resuscitation methods, pressure on the chest did nothing to help them expand and receive fresh air.

It is here that the mouth-to-mouth method is more efficient. Adult lungs can be distended by blowing into the mouth. Individual variations occur. It may not be easy to distend the lungs in a heavy individual, except by forceful blowing. A gentle breath will be sufficient to inflate the passageways of a child and a small "puff" for a baby.

The technique of mouth-to-mouth resuscitation is not difficult to master. The victim is placed on the back, the head is turned to the side, and foreign matter in the mouth is wiped out with the finger. The rescuer approaches the head of the victim from the side. The thumb of one hand is placed between the teeth and the lower jaw is grasped with the other fingers and lifted up forcefully to extend the neck.

The mouth of the subject need not be opened widely because it must be covered completely by the operator's mouth to prevent leakage of air. The nose is closed by pinching the nostrils with the other hand. The operator exhales into the victim's mouth, and as soon as the chest expands, he removes his mouth to allow air to escape. The inflations are repeated at the rate of 20 per minute. In infants, the rescuer takes the mouth and nose into his mouth.

Firemen, policemen, beach guards, medical corps men, physicians, nurses, and ambulance attendants are being taught to insert a special metal or plastic airway tube into the subject's mouth. This makes it easier because air is forced di-

Iron Curtain Becomes A Fiction; It's Easier To Open These Days

By Drew Pearson

PRAGUE. Czechoslovakia — Getting behind the Iron Curtain is now relatively easy. In fact, it's so easy that this name which Winston Churchill first applied to the boundary between the Soviet bloc and the west is now about as outmoded as the line of forts we once stationed along the Mexican border.

Eight years ago I skirted the Iron Curtain from Turkey in the south to Germany in the north. There were barbed-wire entanglements between Turkey and Bulgaria then, troops and artillery along the Albanian border. The curtain was rigid and leakproof. But today all you do is get on an airplane in Zurich and fly to Prague. We flew in a Czech plane, made in Russia, quite comfortable; a buxom Czech hostess who spoke English served an ample lunch with enough butter to make Ezra Taft Benson's eyes pop. If airlines and hotels in the USA were equally generous, Benson's butter problem would vanish.

We arrived in Prague at 10 p. m.—without visas. The Czechoslovak Embassy in Washington had said we didn't need any for transit passage and they were right. However, traveling en transit meant we would have to spend the night at the "International Hotel" near the airport and we wanted to go downtown to see Prague. Without a visa this is supposed to be absolutely impossible. However, the Czech passport officials seemed anxious to please, and after a little telephoning we got permission to stay at the Hotel Alkorn in the heart of Prague.

The Hotel Alkorn was crowded. We could hardly get in. A French wool salesman, Henri Picavet, who knew the hotel porter, finally intervened and coaxed him to give us a room. Looking out the window next morning at the windows on the other side of the patio we could understand why the hotel was crowded. The windows were full of that No. 1 badge of a traveling American—drip-dry shirts.

American tourists were everywhere. They seemed quiet, modest, spent their money unostentatiously—a disappointing letdown from their general reputation. American tourists could be the secret weapon by which the USA conquers the no man's land behind the Iron Curtain.

M. Picavet, the wool salesman, makes the rounds of Iron Curtain countries every two weeks.

"When these people have money, they buy," he said. "When they don't have money, they don't buy. They are easy to deal with and pay promptly."

He sold wool to government-owned textile plants and reported that business had been good. The textile mills were going full blast.

Contrast To Freedom Balloons

What a switch from the old days when it was hard even to get mail into Prague from the West! As we drove downtown I couldn't help but think back to a drizzly August evening in a West German wheat field alongside the Czech border in 1951. We were launching the first "freedom balloons" across the then impenetrable Iron Curtain, carrying messages of friendship from the people of Canada, the United States, and Latin America.

The border on that night looked dark, sullen, forbidding. A few refugees occasionally crossed it. Once some passengers kidnapped a railway conductor and engineer, and burst across into Germany. That was seven years ago and a lot has changed since. Perhaps the change indicates a new policy of Soviet-bloc reasoning.

Either Czechoslovak intelligence was bad and they didn't know I was the originator of the freedom-friendship balloons, or else the Czechs were content to let bygones be bygones. In any case, they were courteous and friendly.

Towering over the beautiful

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

Miss Kathleen Jordan, Somewhere, U.S.A.

Dear Miss Jordan: Come on home. Bring Rocco. Nobody is angry. Hurt, yes. Bewildered, sure. Your mother can't even mention your name without tilting her head back so that the tears won't show. After all, Kay, you're only 16. Remember that song "They Tried To Tell Us We're Too Young"? O.K. Your parents were wrong. You weren't too young.

You must love him a great deal to walk out on a family like that. I've never met Rocco Rossella, but I'll bet he's great. He must be. He is short and slender and dark and considerate and intelligent. So far as I can learn, he has only one mark against him: he lies. He told your father he had 3 years of army service and he gave his age as 19. It doesn't add up.

He said that the lady where he lived was his sister. She says he was a boarder. He said he was a steamfitter. He was working in a filling station. None of these things constitute a crime, Kay. They are a symptom for you to watch.

Your family is, in my estimation, of the best. Your father, Al Jordan, has a lot of friends. No money, but lots of friends. He hurt his back years ago and it wasn't easy to get a job after that. You were one of the children, Kay. There were seven. Your mother wasn't too proud to go out and get a job. She worked hard. Now your father has a good position and he moved the family to Palisade Avenue, Jersey City, N.J.

I don't have to tell you who misses you besides Al and May. Her hair was gray when you left in February. It's snowy now. She blames herself. She wants to know what she did that was wrong. The others—all girls—grew up to do what your mother calls "The right thing."

Eileen, for example. She was the first; the serious one. She's 3; and you remember her as the Little Mother of the family. She's Mrs. Jasinski and has a family of her own. You used to baby-sit for her. And then there is Flossie. She is now Mrs. Longacre, the big generous heart of the family.

When your father burned out a main bearing in the car and didn't have a dime, who told him not to worry? Who, Kay? It was Flossie. She took $200 she was saving for something else and handed it to your father. And Rosemary. How about that Rosemary! She married a beautician and now she's a blonde—roots and all. Her husband, Dominick Clemente, is doing well. He's cathedrals of Prague, just above the Moldavia River, is a giant statue of Joe Stalin. Uncle Joe scowls down on a million or so Czechs as if he were still bossing the Kremlin; as if not a word of criticism had ever been uttered against him by his successor, Nikita Khrushchev.

Suicide Of Masaryk

The ancient Castle of Hradcany also towers over the city, one-time residence of the Kings of Bohemia. When I last visited Prague, it was the office of Edouard Benes. That was in 1923 and Benes was Foreign Minister. Thomas Masaryk was still president then but when he died Benes became President and Jan Masaryk Foreign Minister. Both were great friends of the United States. Jan Masaryk was found on the courtyard below his window after trying unsuccessfully to work with the Communists. The official announcement: Suicide.

It was at this point that the Iron Curtain became as tight as a ship's bulkhead:

The streets of Prague seem empty compared with Italy. There are wide open squares with no parking or traffic problems. People walk. This is not so much because of a dearth of autos, for Czechoslovakia manufactures its own cars; but because of exchange problems. To keep currency from draining out of the country there's tight control of imports and a hard sell on auto exports.

People were standing in line to buy lemons, not because lemons are not easy to import from Italy and North Africa, but because imports are limited. Prague hadn't received a shipment of oranges and lemons for two weeks and the housewives were lined up to get them.

Spring was in the air and students were visiting the cathedrals and the castles—pretty much as they do during spring vacation in Washington. There were sightseers but not many worshippers in the churches.

Back at the airport, we went through the usual, endless routine of passports, customs, currency control. The night before we had passed through currency control at 11 p. m. The same two currency controllers were back at work. It was noon, but they had started work at 6 a. m. From 6 a. m. to 11 p. m. are long hours for a state that is supposed to be a workers' paradise.

We flew on to Hungary and Rumania.

ambitious and he's carving a future for Rosemary and the family.

Helen is still single. She's 24. She's a red-head at the moment, courtesy of Rosemary's husband. She still works at Western Electric, and she's still the family comedienne. Not long ago, she rounded up all her old girl friends, found out that they are all married, and took them out for an evening. She kept them out until 4 in the morning, and none of them has been allowed out since.

Josephine is only 21. She's Mrs. Weaver. She's exactly as you left her—dark and happy-go-lucky. Remember when she won all the awards in high school: "Best Dressed," "Best Flirt," "Best Dancer" and your father roared: "Whatever happened to arithmetic in that school!" Josie makes her own clothes, Kay. She's good at it.

Then there was you, 16. A sophomore in Ferris High School. You were the most religious. You were also the only one who was never insolent to your parents, no matter what the provocation. Like the night Rocco brought you home at 3 o'clock and your mother was waiting in the window.

She ran downstairs and told Rocco never to darken her door again. When mother got you upstairs, she beat you. That wasn't anger, Kay. That was fear. She was afraid of her own thoughts about you, a child of 16, out in a car with a boy. She's so sorry now. She eats her heart out thinking about it. And lastly there is Bernice. She's 11. She too loves you, no matter what you think you did that was wrong.

And Poochie. He misses you. He has developed a bad habit. He keeps taking food away from the infant grandchildren. He was bawled out for it until grandpa discovered that the babies were robbing Poochie of his food.

On the night of Feb. 28, you washed and dried the dishes. It was a last loving act for your mother. You packed and left. Rocco disappeared the same night. Three months. Come on home. Bring Rocco. If you don't know what to do, stop in at the nearest church and ask God. He'll tell you.

Rhubarb Marks Giants' Double Victory Over Pirates

Crowd 35,797 Sees Buccos Lose, 5-2, 6-1

Manager Murtaugh Ejected Following Melee In 1st Game

PITTSBURGH (AP)—The league-leading San Francisco Giants exploded with their bats and tempers Sunday to whip the Pittsburgh Pirates 5-2 and 6-1 in both ends of a doubleheader. A 15-minute rhubarb in the fifth inning of the first game resulted in the ejection of Pirate manager Danny Murtaugh.

A sellout throng of 35,797 at Forbes Field and a vast television audience in New York witnessed the fracas between the two teams after Vernon Law of the Pirates cut loose with a high pitch that dropped pitcher Ruben Gomez to the ground.

Taking off his mask, umpire Frank Dascoli walked toward the mound to say something to Law. Murtaugh dashed from the bench to intercede.

Swings Bat At Danny

The Pirates' manager said something to Gomez. The Giants' pitcher swung twice at Murtaugh with a bat. Murtaugh threw a couple of punches at Gomez. Both Murtaugh and Gomez missed.

During the melee, players and coaches of both clubs emptied the benches, shoving, mauling and pushing their way toward Murtaugh, Gomez and others near home plate.

Park police and umpires finally broke it up, but before they did Orlando Cepeda had to be hauled down from behind by Willie Mays with a flying tackle, pinning him to the ground near the Giant dugout.

Manager Is Blamed

Murtaugh said Dascoli blamed him for the rhubarb. In the dressing room after the first contest, Murtaugh said he said something to Gomez and the Giants' pitcher made an uncomplimentary gesture.

"I saw red and went after him," said Murtaugh.

Dascoli, the plate umpire, said afterwards Murtaugh was the aggressor since he charged Gomez. "The ruckus then started in earnest," said Dascoli, "and the ejection is automatic."

Dascoli said an official report would be made to the National League headquarters but did not indicate whether he and the other umpires would recommend any fines. Only Murtaugh was banished from the game.

Manager Bill Rigney of the Giants said Cepeda apparently got stirred up because of his keen friendship for Gomez. Both played together in the winter league.

The Giants scored runs in the late innings in both games to break ties and go on to win.

In the first game Willie Kirkland singled to score Jim Davenport who had doubled with two out in the seventh inning, to break a 2-2 tie.

In the second game, the Giants won behind the pitching of Ramon Montañez who bested Pirate rookie Curt Raydon, making his first start.

Moore and Norkus To Fight On Coast

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Old Archie Moore and veteran Charley Norkus meet here Monday night in a 10-round non-title fight that both agree they need, badly. Arch, light heavyweight champion, is gunning for another crack at heavyweight titlist Floyd Patterson. Moore, who fights out of San Diego, had a chance once and was knocked out in the fifth round. Norkus knocked out footballer Charley Powell in San Francisco in 1954 but has been on the decline much of the time since. Each expects to weigh about 166 for the non-television affair.

Moore, whose age ranges from 41 to 44 depending on who you talk to, will be after knockout No. 127 and a new KO record. He's tied with the late Young Stribling with 126.

Ruttman, Agabashian Fail To Qualify For Auto Race

Wilson, Cheesbourg Crowd Into Starting Field For Friday

By DALE BURGESS

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—Two Indianapolis Motor Speedway veterans, 1952 winner Troy Ruttman and 11-time starter Fred Agabashian, failed to make the line-up for the 42nd 500-mile race Friday in a wind-swept final qualifying session Sunday.

The 33-car field already had been filled Saturday, and it took a speed well over 142 m.p.h. to shove another car out of the line-up. The final field averaged a record 143.445 in the two weeks' ends of qualifications.

Only drivers able to crowd into the field Sunday were rookie Indianapolis Motor Speedway veteran, 1952 winner Troy Ruttman and 11-time starter Fred Agabashian, who averaged 143.272 for the 10-mile trial in the Sorenson Special, and Big Bill Cheesbourg of Tucson, Ariz., who put a V-8 Novi into the lineup with a 142.546 average.

Wilson had been "bumped" after qualifying earlier in another car.

Drivers eliminated from Saturday's tentative lineup were Agabashian, who had a 142.135 average in the City of Memphis Special, and Gene Hartley of Indianapolis, 142.131 in the Hoyt Machine Special. Hartley had started in six 500-mile races.

Agabashian, who hadn't missed the Memorial Day field since his first start in 1947, tried again in a Safety Auto Special but was unable to hit 142 m.p.h.

Slowest car left in the final field was a Federal Engineering Special qualified by Bob Christie of Grants Pass, Ore., at 142.253. The fastest was the McNamara Special in which Dick Rathmann of Miami set a qualifying record of 145.974 May 17.

Ruttman was the victim of a series of mechanical troubles, some of them built into the new Agabashian Special he tried to drive. The $30,000 vehicle was cranked from the time it arrived at the track, and it was finished off by engine trouble. Ruttman finally got it on the track late in the day but couldn't make qualifying speed.

The combination of wind, with gusts up to 30 m.p.h., and the record speeds of earlier qualifiers, kept mechanics and drivers tinkering with the cars until late in the day. All the qualifying attempts were made in the last hour.

White Sox Break Even With Boston

Pierce Scores, 4-3, After 6-3 Setback

CHICAGO (AP)—Luis Aparicio's only hit of the game drove in the winning run in the ninth Sunday to provide the Chicago White Sox and pitcher Billy Pierce with a 4-3 decision over the Boston Red Sox.

It gave Chicago a split of the doubleheader, Boston taking the opener 6-3 behind Ted Lepcio's three-run homer and lefty Frank Baumann's six-hit pitching.

The White Sox moved into sixth place and Boston fortified its second place standing.

Ted Williams went hitless in five official trips and his average skidded to .248.

The second game was locked 3-3 until the ninth when Jim Landis bled a single, stole second and raced home with the decisive run on Aparicio's single in short center.

Pierce, yielding seven hits and striking out nine, registered his second triumph against four losses.

In the opener, Sherm Lollar doubled home a Chicago run in the first inning and then Baumann set down 13 White Sox in order until Ron Jackson's pinch homer in the sixth. Baumann boosted his season mark to 2-2.

Lepcio's three-run blast came in the second inning with Frank Malone and Lou Berberet on base. They had singled.

Marlene Hagge Wins In Sudden Death Playoff

Jo Ann Prentice Loses At Asheville

ASHEVILLE, N. C. (AP)—Marlene Hagge of Del Ray Beach, Fla., sank a four-foot birdie putt on the first hole of a sudden-death playoff Sunday to win first money of $831 in the $5,000, 54-hole Land of the Sky Women's Open Golf Tournament.

Jo Ann Prentice of Birmingham, Ala., finished the regulation distance tied at 213. Mrs. Hagge shot a 71 Sunday and Miss Prentice a 75.

Mrs. Hagge also had won the 18th hole to force a tie. Miss Prentice earned $641.

Tied for third at 218, good for $419, were defending champion Beverly Hanson of India, Calif.; Wiffy Smith of St. Clair Shores, Mich.; and Fay Crocker of Montevideo, Uruguay.

One stroke behind on the 18th, Marlene sank a three-foot putt that rattled the cup and dropped for a par 4. Jo Ann hit her second shot about 30 yards short of the green. She chipped nicely eight feet past the pin. She had a difficult downhill putt which went 18 inches past, and she took a bogie five.

On the playoff hole, Marlene's second shot was a fine 6-iron to four feet from the pin, and she was down in three. Jo Ann had a par four.

Rush Pitches Braves To Win Over Cubs, 5-2

Phillips Beats Milwaukee, 1-0

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Bob Rush pitched the Milwaukee Braves to a 5-2 victory over his former Chicago Cub teammates Sunday and gave the world champions an even break in a doubleheader before 40,962.

Taylor Phillips, traded for Rush last December, shut out the Braves on six hits as the Cubs won the opener 1-0.

The split, coupled with the San Francisco Giants' sweep over the Pittsburgh Pirates, left the Braves two and one-half games behind the Giants in the National League.

Rush allowed eight hits and struck out nine as he posted his fourth victory against two defeats. His teammates gave him a four-run cushion at rookie Gene Fodge's expense in the fourth.

Wes Covington climaxed the uprising with a two-run homer, his fifth of the season.

An error by Ernie Banks started Fodge toward his first major league defeat. Henry Aaron doubled, Frank Torre singled two runs home and Covington added the frosting with his home run.

Phillips, pitching the first shut-out of his major league career, permitted only three Braves to get as far as second base. The victory was his third without defeat.

Bob Trowbridge was almost as effective as Phillips, holding the Cubs to seven scattered hits before retiring for a pinch hitter after seven innings. But a run he gave up in the third was enough to beat him.

Sammy Taylor, also involved in the Rush-Phillips deal, led off the fourth with a walk, went to third on Johnny Goryl's double and scored while Goryl was being run down on Dark's infield bounder.

Braves' Attendance 20,902 Above 1957

MILWAUKEE (AP)—A crowd of 40,962 watched Sunday's Chicago-Milwaukee doubleheader and sent the Braves' attendance for the season soaring 20,902 ahead of last year's National League record pace.

The Braves drew 302,493 for 14 County Stadium dates a year ago when they established a National League season record of 2,215,404. The count for 14 dates this season is 323,395.

Sunday's turnout was the second largest of the campaign in Milwaukee, eclipsed only by a crowd of 43,339 on opening day.

VALPARAISO, Chile—World auto racing champion Juan Manuel Fangio of Argentina said Sunday he withdrew from the 500-Mile Indianapolis race because he was scheduled to drive a car with which it would have been "very hard to win."

"I went to Indianapolis to drive a car turned over to me by the Dayton plant," Fangio said. "They told me it was a first-class car. That's why I agreed to go." He said, however, after driving it three hours on the track he realized he had no chance with it.

"It's not that I go into a race with certainty I'm going to win but I do want to put on a good show. I would have been unwise to participate in that race," he said.

Berra, Howard, Slaughter Homers Beat Tribe Twice

Trio Of Three-Run Belts Nets Yankees 6-1 And 6-3 Wins

CLEVELAND (AP)—Blasting a trio of three-run homers, the New York Yankees won a doubleheader from the Cleveland Indians Saturday 6-1 and 6-3 before 40,157 fans.

Yogi Berra's three-run homer in the first game was enough for Whitey Ford who pitched a six-hitter to post his fifth victory of the season against two defeats.

Berra got three hits, then sat out the second game.

Enos, Elston Connect
In that contest, the Yankees exploded for six runs in the sixth inning—highlighted by three-run homers by Elston Howard and Enos Slaughter.

Up until then, Cleveland's Dick Tomaneck and the Yankees' Johny Kucks had been engaged in a fine pitching duel. But the Yanks broke a scoreless tie by sending 12 men to the plate in the sixth.

There were five hits, four walks and New York left three men on the bases when reliever Bob Kelly, second of three Tribe pitchers, came on to get the third out.

The Indians struck back for three runs in the seventh and chased Kucks.

Duren Finishes Strong
Duren finished up in fine style, striking out four in 2-13 innings. Kucks got the victory, his third against one loss.

In the first game, Berra's homer was a big cushion for Ford's sterling pitching. The Yanks added another run in the sixth inning and two more in the eighth off Bob Lemon, just off the disabled list, and making his first appearance since April 22. Ray Narleski, who started, suffered his fourth defeat in nine decisions.

Keeping Up With Hollywood by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, May 25—(INS) Arthur Krim and United Artists are taking a financial risk in buying the up-coming film, "Exodus." From the Orient where he is traveling, Otto sends word to me that he's acquired this dramatic novel dealing with the refugees who fled to Israel to escape Nazi persecution. Under the executive supervision of Krim, Otto will produce and direct the film. The story is set in 1948, and Sam Briskin sees Kim in that role and Richard Quine, the director, agrees.

I have always been very fond of Kim and I hope for her sake she doesn't accept any more expensive cars and jewels. She's a girl who likes a good time but doesn't always use her head. And since she loves her career and has so much at stake, I am hoping she'll go back to being the Kim I first knew when she came to our town.

Judging by past performances of the hits written by Leon Uris, I can't say that Otto Preminger daughter, Gisele, came with her from France, and Livvy said: "I've just come back to the hotel from the Women's National Press Club luncheon. Pierre had fully intended to go with me but Gisele had a nervous reaction from the long plane trip from Paris. Our nurse speaks only French so Pierre thought he should remain with her."

Olivia remains in Washington for her appearance on the cerebral palsy broadcast then takes to the road on a P. A. tour with "Proud Rebel."

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: Jerry Lewis telephoned that the deal for Marie McDonald to play opposite him is all signed. I know that makes her happy.

Today there are new ways to cope with dandruff.

Secrets Of Charm by John Robert Powers

Don't Give Up The Fight Against Dandruff

New and increasingly effective preparations for the control of dandruff start with new ideas of what the problem really is. Never mind past history — failure with remedies tried awhile back doesn't mean that your case is hopeless. With one of the new dandruff shampoos, rinses or lotions, so different from old-called cures, the situation can soon be well in hand.

Dandruff is actually nothing more than dead skin cells, excessively shed all over the skin surface. It is no longer generally believed that bacteria causes dandruff, but that many factors are responsible—among them certain conditions of the body hormones, health upsets and faulty diet, especially diet too high in starch and sugar.

Of course neglect of the hair makes way for dandruff, and intolerance of drying hair preparations can take a share of blame. The best dandruff treatment for the normal scalp is still shampooing and brushing. But if this isn't enough until a basic condition improves, look to the new products with high hopes of better correction for longer periods of time than could be expected before.

Try a dandruff shampoo with antiseptic and colloidal sulphur content, which loosens the dandruff so that it washes away. After the first shampoo, there seems to be more dandruff than ever, but this merely proves the product's effectiveness. Five to seven day repeats, carefully done according to directions, clears the scalp to stay that way as long as the treatments continue.

Or try a new dandruff rinse or lotion along with usual shampooing, again exactly as directed. Some require daily use at first, others applications an hour before the shampoo. These preparations, too, produce remarkable and surprisingly long lasting results when their use is careful and constant.

ANSWERS TO BRIDGE QUIZ
(Copyright 1958: The Chicago Tribune)

Q. 1—As South you hold:
♠ 7 3 ♠ 10 8 6 3 ♣ Q 5 2 ♠ 9 8 4
The bidding has proceeded:
West North East South
1 spade 2 no trump Pass ?
What do you bid?

A.—Pass. Partner's overall of three no trump means exactly what it says: a desire to play at that contract and is not a request for you to bid.

Q. 2—As South you hold:
♠ 6 ♠ 8 7 5 2 ♠ 10 ♠ A ♠ Q 8 6 4
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 club Pass 1 heart Pass
1 no trump Pass ?
What do you bid now?

A.—The possibilities of this hand are unlimited despite opener's minimum rebid. Certain minimum holdings he might have would produce a grand slam, depending upon a perfect fit. Most holdings would produce a small slam in clubs, but in the hope that further bidding might shed more light on the problem, the proper call is a jump shift of three diamonds, forcing to game. Of course, a vigorous club raise will be given next round.

Q. 3—As South you hold:
♠ A 9 5 3 ♠ 7 4 ♠ K ♠ Q 6 4 ♠ J 5 3
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 spade 2 hearts 2 spades 3 hearts
1 spade 5 hearts ?
What do you bid now?

A.—It is difficult for you to judge whether it would be more profitable to double the enemy or to bid five spades. Perhaps partner will be in better position to decide. The pass is recommended and implies that you think there is a good chance to make five spades. Partner must bid either five spades or double the opponents.

Q. 4—As South you hold:
♠ A ♠ 9 8 6 3 ♠ A ♠ Q 4 ♠ 3 ♠ 6 4 2
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 spade 3 diamonds 3 hearts Pass
What do you bid now?

A.—The choice, of course, lies between raising partner's suit or rebidding three spades. Our choice is clearly for the rebid of the spades. An immediate raise of the hearts would be somewhat too aggressive with this minimum opening bid. Evidently partner is prepared to take another step, club suit can be used for discards.

On The Line

by Bob Considine

NEW YORK, May 25 (INS)—A son of ours is 16 today. We look up at him—on a parade grounds at his military school—and know the muteness of all parents who pause to regard their handiwork.

We think of him as he was the day he came, now that he looms there in uniform privately hoping we won't embarrass him by showing him that we like him. He weighed seven pounds and seven ounces, was bald as an egg and had rosy jaws. He was a big, bawling male, sure enough. We wondered who we'd give the accumulated girl clothes to. We were that sure, what with our first one having been a boy.

At the christening, godmother Inez Robb and godfather Joe Connolly alternated in holding him. It was a struggle. He yelled bloody murder—his voice echoing through St. Patrick's Cathedral.

"A genius," Bugs Baer said. "Only four weeks old and he's already joined the choir." Inez kissed her godson on his dear egg head, further anointing him with lipstick marks. The kid quit the choir.

We took a deep breath that day and rented a suite at the Waldorf with the help of a friend named Toots we bought some "Tiffany" as Joe Jacobs called champagne. Launch the kid right, we said. The picture we remembered most—looking at him on his birthday—was one in which I held him in the center of a group of sports people: Dan Parker, Henry McLemore, Grantland Rice, Cappy Wells, Mike Jacobs and Frank Stevens. "Can't miss being a sportswriter," we all agreed.

But when he got old enough he said to hell with it. Yet he, the product of a couple hardly able to distinguish the white from the black keys on a piano, can make fine music—and pick up almost any other instrument and play it. And speak algebra, and strange languages like that.

What do you tell a kid at 16? Come in out of the rain? Be good? Prepare yourself for the golden age of the atom? Money doesn't grow on trees? Study hard? There must be something to be said at this particular milestone—but we couldn't remember what was said to us, years ago, and then we knew he wouldn't remember what was said to him today, either. But he had a message for us, the faltering, the uncertain.

"Tell Sandy (his girl) that I'll see her this summer," he said. The hand boomed and he marched away.

Nice bloke named Arthur Maisel, who names his New York restaurants after states, usually, started out just 15 years ago with a borrowed $3,000 and a ham and eggery. Last year he grossed $10,000,000. He has given restaurant management courses at several universities, and something else; working closely with parole boards, he has put more than 200 former prisoners to work in his places or in other jobs, spreading his own luck among men and women who had none themselves.

New York is filled with colorful figures, but few have the dash and virtuosity of my friend Michael Alexander Werboff, the artist, Mike, who has painted just about all of the world's great men and women, was born in the Ukraine, studied in Petrograd under the great Kardovsky, fought the Bolsheviks, escaped, lived the Bohemian life of the left bank, made the Salon des Tuileries.

His works hang in museums from the Metropolitan to the Palaces of Spain. Not long ago he turned down a chance to sing the Emile de Becque role in a touring "South Pacific," so fine is his voice, so virile his manner.

Lousy golfer, though.

If the Brothers Minsky put on Francoise Sagan's arty ballet "The Broken Date," they'd be not only arrested but deported. (Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.)

CHRYSLER

Custom Built?
YES!

Very few of these Special 1956 Packard "400" Patricians were built. The interior is all real leather and nylon, even the headliner is washable. Packard's fabulous automatic self-leveling Torsion Bar Suspension is Ultra-Safety to ride behind. The discriminating owner of this local beauty kept it in tip top shape with regular checks. It has smooth as silk push button transmission, power steering, power windows, power seat, power brakes, power antenna, radio, tinted glass, special ducts and blower for heater and defroster, white sidewall tires, special mirrors, undercoated, trunk lights, backup lights, air foam seats, insulated roof and many, many small accessories added at the factory to make up one of the most beautiful and unusual cars we have ever seen. Woman Takes Overdose Of Sleeping Pills

Romney Mother's Condition Critical

A 28-year-old Romney, W. Va., woman is in "critical" condition at Memorial Hospital and attendants said she apparently took an overdose of sleeping pills.

Mrs. Virginia Beitzel was admitted to the hospital about 1 p. m. yesterday after her husband, John Beitzel, discovered her unconscious in her bedroom.

Dr. J. F. Easton, Romney physician who was called to attend the woman, said her condition indicated she was very ill. Although he could find no evidence to show what had brought about her coma, the doctor said he suspected she had taken some sort of sleeping potion. He said the pupils of her eyes were greatly dilated and she did not respond to stimulants.

Mr. Beitzel said his wife had been under the care of another physician and had received some medicine for her nerves, but he did not seem to know what caused her coma. She had just been to a doctor Saturday, he told the hospital attendants.

The woman was brought to Cumberland by the Combs Funeral Home ambulance.

The couple live in a small house several miles north of Romney. He is an employee of the Potomac Light and Power Company. They have several children.

West Virginia State Police at Romney are investigating, with Sgt. W. F. Bowley and Trooper W. A. Steffick in charge.

Local Guard Unit Fires For Qualification

Members of the local National Guard unit were in action over the weekend on the rifle range to meet requirements for their annual qualification.

Lt. Thomas F. Conlon Jr., commanding officer of Headquarters Battalion of the 115th Infantry, said some 40 members of his company took part in the two-day firing.

Lt. Conlon said the rifle range is located on the land used by the Allegany Beagle Club and owned by Barton's Dairy. Lt. Conlon said the use of the land for rifle qualification has been donated for the past eight years.

The National Guard here is made up of three companies and each spends a weekend on the rifle range for qualification with the M-1 rifle. Companies "C" and "D" have completed their firing and all members of the local unit will wind up the qualification firing on June 14-15.

Lt. Conlon said the local unit spends four weekends on the local range to complete qualification before they attend the two-week summer training camp. This enables the guard companies to spend more time in their regular duties rather than on the rifle range while at camp.

The time spent on the local rifle range in practice and qualification is counted as a regular drill meeting for members of the unit.

Lunch was served out on the range and was provided by the auxiliary of the Bowling Green Volunteer Fire Company.

Beall Gets Degree

U. S. Senator J. Glenn Beall (R-Sixth District) has been made a Tall Cedar in a special ceremony presided over by the Supreme Tall Cedar of the United States, Brother Leo A. Benedict, of Bethesda. The ceremony was held in Cumberland under the auspices of Algonquin Forest 140, Tall Cedars of Lebanon.

New Convent Is Dedicated And Blessed

The new convent built here by SS. Peter and Paul Catholic Church at a cost of $250,000 was dedicated and blessed at ceremonies held yesterday.

The convent will serve as a home for the 24 Ursuline Sisters, who teach at SS. Peter and Paul parochial school and Ursuline Academy.

The edifice is "small payment indeed for the generations of devoted service on the part of these dedicated women," said Rev. John U. Lyness, assistant pastor of St. Patrick's Church, who delivered the dedication sermon.

It was two or three years after the end of the Civil War, he said, when the Ursulines came here to provide a Catholic education for children of the parish.

A Christian education, he said, offers the only way to bring virtue and religion back into the lives of the people.

Unjust agitation against Catholic education, he said, "is simply the work of the devil, who is fully convinced that the more our schools flourish the poorer his kingdom will become."

Rt. Rev. Msgr. J. Lawrence Kilkenny, rural dean of Western Maryland, officiated at the ceremonies, assisted by Rev. Marius Elsener, O. F. M. Cap., pastor, and clergy of this area.

Rev. Thomas Aquinas, assistant pastor of SS. Peter and Paul Church, read the prayers said by the clergy who went throughout the new convent, blessing it to the service of God.

Hundreds of members and friends of the parish attended the ceremony and the open house which followed.

Gate Advocated For Elevator

The Otis Elevator Company has submitted a report to the Allegany County Board of Commissioners recommending that a gate with electrical contact be installed at the front entrance of the Court House elevator.

This was advocated to provide proper protection for the safety of workmen and employees handling freight and against possible danger to materials carried on the elevator.

Pupils Learn About Soil And Water

Some 79 sixth graders at East Side School know a little more about soil and water conservation practices as a result of a tour which they took around Allegany County.

Marlin M. Gordon, assistant work unit conservationist with the local office of the Soil Conservation Service, served as guide for the two busloads of pupils and their teachers, Miss Orpha Clark and Lee Miller.

First stop on the tour, conducted last Thursday, was Evitts Creek, where the group visited a beaver dam site. From there they were taken to the Collins garage on Baltimore Pike. A sawmill belonging to the Curry Lumber Company at Barreille was the next stop. From there they were transported to Wilbert Paul's dairy farm at Mt. Savage, where they saw examples of contour strip cropping, diversion terraces and crop rotation. While in that area they ate their picnic lunches on the Mt. Savage School grounds.

While at Mt. Savage, the young students saw where the first iron rails in America were made, inspected a clay mine and a brick yard.

Final stop on the day-long tour was at the Great Meadows Farm at Eckhart, where they saw Angus beef cattle, a farm pond and grassland farming.

The students have been studying conservation of natural resources in their general science course. Before the tour, Mr. Gordon showed them slides illustrating various conservation practices.

Two bicycles belonging to St. Mary's School students were reported stolen after being left behind the church while the boys were attending classes.

City Police list the stolen bikes as being a black and silver English Style Schwinn Corvette, serial number B14515 and license number 66; belonging to Russell Herold, 513 Laing Avenue; and a red and white Hawthorne, serial number B120701 and license number 1526, belonging to Paul Defibaugh, 515 City View Terrace.

First Methodist Breaks Ground For Building

Bids For Educational Unit Are Due June 9

Ground was broken yesterday by First Methodist Church for the first phase of a $350,000-plus building project in the 1500 block of Frederick Street.

The ceremony was held on the site of the $100,000 educational building the church hopes to open by next Easter.

Participating in the actual ground breaking ceremony were Rev. Everett W. Culp, pastor, and heads of nine organizations of the congregation.

Ground Is Broken

Hayes Chambers Jr., president of the board of trustees, read the scripture and Rev. Dr. Paul Warner, Hagerstown District superintendent, read the prayer and pronounced the dedication at the ceremony.

The congregation sang "For the Beauty of the Earth," led by Mrs. Margery Chambers with Mrs. Carl Partleton as organist, during the ceremonies.

Others who took part in the ground breaking were Andrew N. Phillips, building committee chairman; William Brubaker, oldest member in years; George Sullivan, longest membership in the church, and Tommy Phillips, son of Andrew N. Phillips, and youngest walking member present.

Over 200 members of the congregation attended the ceremony.

Is On Pentecost

In his sermon based on Verse 5 of Psalm 62, Rev. Dr. Warner said "We may expect from God protection, provision and power."

Rev. Mr. Culp termed the day an appropriate one as it was Pentecost Sunday, which marks the birth of the Christian Church, and the anniversary of the conversion of John Wesley in 1738.

The congregation will open bids June 9 on the educational building, a U-shaped structure 90 feet long and 51 feet wide.

Plans call for awarding the contract on June 13 and to have the project completed by next Easter.

Construction of a parsonage, chapel and sanctuary will follow.

Treatment Plant Plans Approved

Plans and specifications for the installation of a complete treatment system at Westernport have been approved by the Maryland Water Pollution Control Commission.

The system approved is designed to treat industrial wastes of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company mill and sanitary sewage from the towns of Westernport, Luke and Piedmont.

The installation is scheduled for completion and operation late in 1959 or early 1960, the commission said.

The Upper Potomac River Commission recently awarded a $2,308,254 contract for the waste treatment plant to the Carl E. Widell and Son Company of Merchantsville, N. J., and a $485,860 contract for a trunk sewer line to the Hazelwood Construction Company here.

Church Notices Due Wednesday

Because of the Memorial Day holiday, all church notices for this week's church page must be in the Times-News office by 11 p. m. Wednesday, instead of the usual Thursday deadline.

Man Stabbed In Quarrel At Home

Clarence Evans, 34-year-old Milton Place resident, was treated yesterday in Sacred Heart Hospital for minor stab wounds and lacerations of the body which police believe were inflicted in an argument with his wife.

Officer Frank Bohn and Sgt. James Brown investigated the report from the hospital that Evans had been brought there by a friend about 6 o'clock yesterday morning.

The authorities said they were told Evans was cut by his wife, who obtained a butcher knife from the kitchen to defend herself after he had knocked her down a flight of steps during an argument.

The hospital reported Evans was not badly hurt, and was released after treatment of his wounds. Police are continuing their investigation.

Teaching Aids Are Revised By Red Cross

Great progress was made during the past year in revising texts and teaching materials used in first aid courses by the Allegany County Chapter of the Red Cross in order to emphasize more strongly the prevention of accidents and to improve first aid techniques.

This was reported by Robert Thwaites Jr., first aid chairman of the chapter, who gave a summary of activities at the annual chapter meeting last week.

He pointed out the Red Cross has adopted the long known but little used mouth-to-mouth method of resuscitation in attempting to revive infants and small children.

Mindful of the value of first aid trained volunteers in case of enemy attack, the Red Cross has maintained close cooperative relations with the Federal Civil Defense Administration, he added.

The first aid committee is composed of 17 people from all sections of the county. Mr. Thwaites reports that the local chapter now has 24 instructors, 11 of whom have taught or are teaching at the present time some 23 classes: Cumberland 11, Frostburg, four; LaVale, one; Bowman's Addition, two; Ridgeley, one; Westernport, one; Spring Gap, two; and Oldtown, one.

He said 262 standard first aid certificates will be issued this year and 131 advanced first aid certificates making a total of 393 certificates.

The first aid committee manned two first aid tents at the sports car races this month. Plans for the future call for five mobile first aid units and the establishment of a highway first aid station at Flintstone.

Patricia Dawn Johnson, 27, of Roberts Street, Westernport, was admitted to Sacred Heart Hospital shortly after midnight yesterday following a two-car accident on U.S. 220 at Cresaptown.

Maryland State Police said she received lacerations of the forehead when her car apparently crossed the center line of the highway and struck the left rear fender of another automobile.

The collision occurred about 12:10 a. m. yesterday as the Westernport woman was driving south. David Chester Beard, 19, of 442 North Mechanic Street, operator of the second vehicle which was northbound, was unhurt.

Trooper L. W. Lewis investigated.

Mahoney May Try Again -- Sometime

Not Through, Says Defeated Candidate

BALTIMORE (AP)—George P. Mahoney, beaten in five attempts for statewide public office, has left the door ajar for another try.

At the same time, he indicated he would be willing to "sit down and talk" with the successful harmony slate headed by J. Millard Tawes, the gubernatorial nominee, and Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro, candidate for the Senate.

This might mean in political parlance that Mahoney would be willing to actively back the Tawes - D'Alesandro slate now in return for their support at some future date, such as in the 1962 Senate race.

Such an arrangement is interpreted as a more likely possibility than for Mahoney to get some appointive job through Tawes or D'Alesandro in the event they win in November. They already have a large group of organization supporters to take care of.

Not Through With Politics

Mahoney said during the week-end that he is not through with politics despite his latest defeat in Tuesday's primary. He ran second to D'Alesandro, but trailed only by about 5,000 votes behind D'Alesandro's unofficial total of 124,822.

"My friends throughout the state, including Baltimore City, have asked me not to let them down, and I will remain in politics," Mahoney declared.

He declined to commit himself further than that. But the implication was strong that he may try again for public office. He has run for the governorship or U. S. Senate every other year since 1950.

The Democratic harmony ticket hoped to expand its unity program at a breakfast here Monday morning. It was billed as a get-together for the purpose of planning "the welfare of the Democratic party," as Tawes put it.

Of the three major candidates who opposed D'Alesandro in the Senate primary, only Clarence D. Long indicated he would be breaking bread with the winners.

Mahoney excused himself, saying his recurring ankle injury was bothering him again.

Bruce Has No Plans

James Bruce, who ran third in the primary, said he would be in Atlantic City on vacation Monday and could not attend the breakfast.

Bruce, who is a director of about 12 corporations, said, "I never expect to run for public office again."

He has been a major contributor to past campaigns of other Maryland Democrats but this was the first time he had sought elective office.

Asked if he would be able to take an active role in the general election campaign, Bruce replied, "I don't think I'll have time to." But he added he "might possibly."

Another who said he would not be able to attend the breakfast was Joseph L. Manning, who lost to Senate President Louis L. Goldstein in the Democratic race for comptroller. He explained he would be in New York at a grocers' convention but said, "I'll be glad to sit down and talk to Tawes anytime in the future."

Fulton Myers Elects Trimble

John Trimble was elected commander of Fulton Myers Post 153, American Legion at the annual election of the post yesterday afternoon.

Other officers who were elected in yesterday's balloting include Harry Beckward Jr., first vice commander; John Kent, second vice commander; Herman M. Meekins, adjutant; Sherman R. Parker, treasurer; Randall G. Davis, service officer; Ernest William, historian; John W. Gilmore, sergeant-at-arms and Harold N. Banks, chaplain.

Walter W. Edwards was named convention delegate and Harry M. Pough, Carl Fisher Jr. and William L. Beckward were elected members of the executive board.

The new officers were installed at ceremonies presided over by Lonnie Marsh, district commander who is a member of Victory Post 155, American Legion in Westernport.

Commander Marsh commended the local Legion post on the participation of its drum and bugle corps in programs the past year and stressed the importance of the activities conducted by the American Legion.
